Rozann Says Goodbye to Hosts, Meets New Family

(Editor's Note—Rozann Wills, a North High School senior is now in Greece as an American exchange student for the summer.)

Patras, Greece August 1, 1958

Hello Everyone! One month gone already! It really doesn't seem possible. Today began just like any other day with the sun streaming in my window at 9 a.m. and me rolling sleepily out of bed and staggering into the bathroom to splash cold water on my face.

Breakfast in the spacious dining room proceeded as usual and afterwards mama left for her daily shopping trip. There the resemblance to an ordinary day ended. Today we would not go swimming at Bouaitika. Fontaine and Mary had gone to say goodbye to Marina, a friend who is leaving for the states as an AFS student, and as for me, I was standing in the middle of the little room which had been all mine for a whole month, trying to decide how to squeeze all my things into two suitcases.

Says Goodbye

Both suitcases, a box, and several packages later I was ready to go. Then armed with my camera, I set off to do a little exploring on my own. After a tour of the city's highlights and a short stop at each one to snap some pictures I headed for the station to say goodbye to the four American students who were leaving for Athens.

There was a last minute rush as everyone exchanged addresses and shouted, "Be sure to write; it doesn't cost much to send letters to Athens, and then the train was gone leaving all of us waving madly from the platform. Fontaine and I walked over to the restaurant and joined mama for lunch and afterward we rented a car, and drove down the coast stopping for a while to refresh ourselves with a glass of lemonade at one of the little roadside cafes. By 5 p.m. we were home again but only for a few minutes.

As I climbed the stairs for the last time I felt a pang of sadness. I gathered up my things, took one more look around to make sure I hadn't forgotten anything, kissed grandma goodbye and returned to the car. Then off we went; next stop Miaouli st. 21 and the Potamianos family.

New Family

I was more than a little nervous as I walked up to the door. Dina (she's the oldest of five children) answered my ring and took me upstairs. I soon found to my delight that I had acquired four new sisters and one brother. Starting at the top they are Dina 19 years old, Theans 17, Mary 16, Rhea 15, and Johnny 10.

Dina and Mary speak English best, the former having gone to school in England for a year, but the rest of the family is learning. Johnny is very good and I'm told that he stands at the head of his English class which isn't hard to believe. I'm afraid I'll have to leave now because I just heard someone say my new family is waiting.

Affectionately, Rozann Wells
